TO WHO IT MAY CONCERN:

My name is Randy Dixon and I am the Artistic Director of Unexpected Productions and the head of Seattle TheatreSports, one of the longest running improvisational groups in all of the U.S. The style of improvisation that we perform in Seattle is a narrative based long form style that was developed out of the teachings of Keith Johnstone from the U.K. and Del Close from the U.S.

Improvisation is an important tool that anyone can use in their daily lives from actors, comedians, filmmakers, writers, and public speakers alike. Improvisation teaches the basic tools such as listening, teamwork, character development, spontaneity, and story telling.

Mr. Adam Dow has worked with Unexpected Productions for over the past 11 years. He is a very talented and funny improviser as well as very patient and diligent teacher. I have known Adam on many different levels from being one of my students, to one of our ensemble members, to being a teacher, and now a world traveler. That is why I feel competent in recommending Adam Dow as a good choice for being an Improvisational Teacher. Adam Dow is trust worthy, timely and all around a nice person to be around. I hope you will have as much fun working with him as I have had.

Yours truly,
